Objective

We buy, we spend and we do our banking more virtually than ever. The way we manage and understand our money is drastically changing due to the digitalisation of our everyday lives. Banks and startups are actively developing innovative tools to make financial services more user-friendly and improve financial well-being for consumers and employees. In a half-day seminar we aim to discuss the financial education in light of the digital revolution. Let's be amazed by the possibilities Fintech tools can give us and how digital literacy is crucial to remain future-proof.

Audience

EBF banking community, Students, FinTech community, FEPG, Financial Education Platform, stakeholders in EU and Belgium
